Abstract (4000 characters maximum):

IPEDS is a system of surveys designed to collect basic data from approximately 6 Title IV postsecondary institutions in the United States. The IPEDS provides information on numbers of students enrolled, degrees completed, other awards earned, dollars expended, staff employed at postsecondary institutions, and cost and price information. The amendments to the Higher Education Act of 1998, Pub. L. No. 105-244, Sec. 131, specify the need for the "redesign of relevant data systems to improve the quality of data collected and reported by postsecondary institutions."
